

Blagdon Estate opens its gardens once again for Macmillan Cancer Support

Blagdon Open Gardens will be held at Blagdon Estate on Sunday 27th June 2010

Macmillan Cancer Support celebrates its 4th annual event at Blagdon Hall, seven miles north of Newcastle just off the A1/A19 interchange.

Entry is £5 Adults, £4 OAP £1 children, all proceeds for a chance to explore this beautiful estate will help Macmillan Cancer Support reach more families who are affected by cancer.

If you enjoy taking a stroll through beautiful gardens and shady woods, watching a leisurely game of cricket, trying your hand at Fly casting, or perhaps enjoying the Falconry then the good news is you can enjoy all of these activities plus many more all on the same day!

As well as exploring the wonderful private gardens and trying your hand at country pursuits you will also be able to wander around the many fantastic local produce & craft stalls before settling down to listen to the brass band or to watch the six-a-side cricket tournament.

There are also activities suitable for children of all ages, including hook the duck, story time, face painting, pony rides and much more.
